THEME

How might we use evidence to drive equitable sexual and reproductive health outcomes that reflect the lived realities and priorities of young people across diverse contexts?

Stories of Change

PLENARY

09:00 AM - 10:00 AM

BOSQUE I

The Stories of Change Plenary is designed as a dynamic and inspiring session where youth leaders and advocates share powerful narratives of transformation rooted in equity, resilience, and community impact. This plenary will bring together speakers in a TED-style format, offering personal and community stories that highlight how young people are driving meaningful change in family planning and sexual and reproductive health (FP/SRH).

- To amplify youth voices by showcasing lived experiences of transformation and innovation in SRHR.
- To illustrate the power of equity by centering stories from diverse backgrounds and communities.
- To inspire action through compelling storytelling that demonstrates tangible change in communities.
- To create a space for audience engagement, where participants can also share their own "mini stories of change."

From Ideas to Impact: Crafting SMART Advocacy Messages for SRHR

BREAKOUT SESSION 1

11:00 AM - 12:30 PM

BOSQUE II

Youth advocates often possess the passion and lived experience necessary to drive change, but may lack the practical tools to translate their energy into strategic, measurable, and impactful advocacy messages. This breakout session will address this gap by providing 125 young leaders with an opportunity to exercise their skills in crafting advocacy messages. By sharing tangible examples and providing a hands-on group work exercise, the session will empower participants to build strategic and impactful advocacy messages.

- Analyze real-world examples of successful youth-led SRHR advocacy initiatives from diverse contexts.
- Translate lived experiences into clear, concise, and compelling advocacy messages.
- Collaborate with peers to begin crafting advocacy messages based on a shared case study.

Evidence that Matters: Centering Youth in Family Planning and SRHR Programs

BREAKOUT SESSION 2

11:00 AM - 12:30 PM

ROCIO

There is a need to strengthen the connection between evidence and program implementation, while creating platforms that elevate youth contributions and lived experiences. This breakout session will highlight how youth are effectively generating, using, and translating evidence into practical, real-world programming.

- Showcase youth-led and youth-informed evidence on SRHR, including abortion access.
- Highlight best practices in program implementation, emphasizing what works, lessons learned, and how evidence informs concrete actions.
- Explore program pathways for translating evidence into practice, advocacy, and policy change.
- Explore SRHR program implementation, regional perspectives and ensure diverse youth voices are reflected (Africa, Asia, LAC, etc.).
- Co-create a youth-driven set of recommendations on "Evidence to Impact" to guide future work on programming and research.

Designing from the Margins: Co-creating Equitable SRHR Solutions Through Youth-Led Human-Centred Design

BREAKOUT SESSION 3 | 11:00 AM - 12:30 PM | BOSQUE III

This interactive breakout shows how youth-led HCD turns evidence and lived experience into practical, equitable SRHR solutions. Participants will learn core HCD moves, examine real cases from diverse contexts, and run a fast-paced mini design sprint to prototype responses to priority challenges that young people face.

- Explored core HCD principles, youth-centred models, and ethics of co-design.
- Examined real-world youth-led SRHR innovations using HCD across multiple contexts.
- Practiced a mini design sprint: empathise, define, ideate, prototype.
- Reflected on integrating evidence with lived experience to strengthen equitable SRHR outcomes.

SRHR in Challenging Contexts: Youth-Led Pathways to Equity and Resilience

BREAKOUT SESSION 4

11:00 AM - 12:30 PM

BOSQUE I

This session aims to bridge the gap between evidence and action, ensuring that young people's lived realities in the most challenging contexts are not sidelined but instead drive policy, programming, and funding priorities.

- Analyze barriers (legal, political, cultural) that hinder youth SRHR in challenging contexts.
- Showcase youth-led solutions with proven impact and scalability.
- Ensure active engagement of at least 80% of participants through inclusive formats (debates, scenarios, storytelling, and tools like Mentimeter).
- Co-create actionable recommendations for advancing SRHR in challenging contexts to inform the ICFP's outcome report.
- Include voices from those affected and voices of marginalised, including virtual or pre-recorded contributions.

Arts4Advocacy MicroLabs: Co-Creating Advocacy Spark & Murals

PLENARY | 02:40 PM - 04:40 PM | BOSQUE I

Overall Goal

Demonstrate—and equip participants to replicate—arts-based strategies that drive equitable Sexual Reproductive Health and Rights (SRHR) outcomes for adolescents and youth.

Specific Objectives

- 1. Showcase youth artists: a) Showcase the four diverse artivism case studies from the UNGA 2024 session participants, in addition to 6 Colombian artists, illustrating tangible SRHR impact.
- b) Online exhibition of youth artists from around the globe with the theme of SRHR.
- c) Exhibition of local youth artists from Colombia on the same theme.
- 2. Knowledge Sharing. Equip over 75 young leaders with a toolkit of creative advocacy methods they can adapt in their own contexts.
- 3. Collaboration. Facilitate connections between artists, advocates, donors and researchers to foster funding and collaboration.
- 4. Future Actions. Generate commitments for the future by collecting more than 50 pledges on an "Equity Wall" (physical & digital) for follow-up by the ICFP Secretariat.
- 5. Report to Plenary. Committee organizers will prepare a collaborative presentation to plenary showcasing different art forms with the same theme in form of an arts explosion (a mashup of visual, and musical performance and display).

Co-creating an inclusive, strong intergenerational movement for the future of SRHR

PLENARY | 09:00 AM - 10:00 AM | BOSQUE I

Theme: Co-creating an inclusive, strong intergenerational movement for the future of SRHR.

Our Dream: We envision a future where young people and established senior leaders stand side by side, working as equal partners in shaping an inclusive, resilient, and evidence-driven intergenerational movement. This plenary is designed as a space of mutual accountability, respect, and creativity where youth agency and lived experiences meet institutional leadership to co-create solutions for a bold, inclusive SRHR future.

Power of Crowdsourcing: The Network Fund

PLENARY |

09:50 AM - 10:00 AM

BOSQUE I

We will close this morning's plenary by sharing about the Network Fund—a community-driven initiative that crowdsources support for AYSRHR/FP interventions. Our goal is to raise a minimum of $50,000 by 2026.

Self-care Intervention and Integrating Family Planning and HIV

BREAKOUT SESSION 1

10:30 AM - 12:00 PM

ROCIO

This session seeks to identify existing gaps within SRHR self-care interventions, identify what works, what doesn't, and finally conceptualise how to include youth voices, especially those often left out, in designing self-care programmes that integrate HIV and Family planning while meeting their needs. The session will compose of a mix of panel discussion, small group chats, and a plenary wrap-up, participants will share ideas, tackle barriers like stigma or inequality, and co-create practical, youth-led solutions to make SRHR self-care accessible and equitable for everyone.

- Contextualize the evolving role of self-care in SRHR, HIV prevention, and family planning, particularly for adolescents and young people.
- Explore innovative integration models that connect self-care practices with accessible, inclusive services both in health facilities and community settings.
- Highlight youth-led perspectives on how SRHR programs can reflect the realities of young people's lives, including their agency, sexual and gender diversity, and intersectional identities.
- Co-create a vision for an inclusive SRHR future by engaging young participants in interactive dialogue, design-thinking exercises, and storytelling.
- Identify key policy, programmatic, and community actions needed to scale equitable integration of self-care, HIV, and family planning rooted in evidence and youth experiences.

Centering Youth Agency: Co-Designing Integrated Mental Health & SRHR Solutions

BREAKOUT SESSION 2

10:30 AM - 12:00 PM

BOSQUE III

This session focuses on applying this theme to the integration of Mental Health and Psychosocial Support (MHPSS), within SRHR services, through youth-led, participatory, and evidence-grounded cocreation.

- Illuminate the mental health and SRHR connection and highlight global and regional research gaps, especially for very young adolescents.
- Spotlight promising integration models across CSE (Comprehensive Sexuality Education), youth-friendly services, and digital platforms.
- Enable participants to co-design practical, youth-centered integration ideas, grounded in equity and intersectionality.
- Launch a micro-network (e.g., WhatsApp) for follow-through, pilot development, and cross-learning.

Environment, Climate, and SRHR

BREAKOUT SESSION 3

10:30 AM - 12:00 PM

BOSQUE II

Climate disasters, extreme weather events, rising temperatures, biodiversity loss, and displacement disproportionately impact young people, particularly girls and marginalized communities. Floods disrupt access to contraception, displacement limits SRHR services, heatwaves exacerbate maternal health risks, and climate stress drives harmful practices such as child marriage. Young people, who are already at the forefront of climate activism, must also be centered as leaders in shaping integrated climate and SRHR responses.

- Highlight the intersection between climate justice, environmental sustainability, and SRHR.
- Showcase youth-led evidence and practices that address these interconnected challenges.
- Engage 125 participants in interactive, solution-oriented discussions to co-create innovative pathways for climate-resilient SRHR.

Advancing Rights-Based Approaches through Youth Leadership and Lived Experiences

BREAKOUT SESSION 4

10:30 AM - 12:00 PM

BOSQUE I

This session aims to place young people's voices at the center, exploring how rights-based approaches can become more inclusive, accessible, and transformative when led by those with lived experience. It will use storytelling, dialogue, and participatory co-creation to build collective recommendations and a shared vision for the future of FP and SRHR.

- Concrete, youth-led recommendations to strengthen rights-based approaches in FP/SRHR.
- Recognition of intersectional lived experiences—including disability, LGBTQ+ identities, and grassroots perspectives—in global SRHR discourse.
- A visual "future vision" artifact that symbolizes collective aspirations and reinforces youth-led imagination in policymaking spaces.
